

IRFWP Series on Religion and Peace and Interreligious Dialogue

An Evening of Debate, Dialogue and Reflection Sponsored by The Inter Religious Federation for World Peace

Discussion: Arts in the Aftermath: The Role of Art and Artists in Creating a Culture of Peace in the Post 9/11 Era

The moral and ethical power of the arts can be a potent influence in shaping attitudes and values. The discussion will focus on the role artists play in using their creative abilities for the betterment of humanity as well as the issues of creative freedom and responsibility.

Moderator:

David Eaton: Music Director of the New York City Symphony

Guest Speakers:

Donald Brown: Sculptor and founder of the Donald Brown
International Art Gallery

Program:

The program will include refreshments, a panel discussion, and conclude with a group discussion and Q&A. The atmosphere of the event will be casual, intimate, and diverse—an open environment where participants can freely offer sincere views in an uncritical and non-biased setting. Please RSVP if you plan to attend as space will be highly limited.

Our next conversation discusses Iran and the Development of Nuclear Power. Please check www.irfwp.org for updated information.
